SUPPORTED BY EXTERNAL POLICY FUNDS

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

The Erasmus+ International Mobility supported by external policy funds programme (Erasmus+ EPF) allows students, from higher education establishments located outside Europe and partners of the programme, to study at Artois University from the 2nd year of their higher education studies onwards.

Particular attention is devoted to students from disadvantaged socioeconomic backgrounds.

Artois University receives European subsidies which consists of giving participants a financial aid to partially cover:

- the costs of the stay in the form of a monthly (student) stipend + possibility with a complementary monthly stipend for students with fewer opportunities ;
- the travel costs based on distance covered ;
- actual costs of any specific needs (reserved for disabled persons).

The EPF Mobility period will be recognized in the home institution after credits have been validated in the host institution.

In collaboration with partner establishments, an inter-institutional Erasmus+ agreement has been signed defining the number of mobilities, the duration and the field and level of studies targeted.
